"TASTE OF THE MOUNTAINS" BY CHRISTOPHE PAULY, LES GETS AMBASSADOR

A lifelong lover of Les Gets, Christophe Pauly—Michelin-starred chef of Le Coq aux Champs in Soheit-Tinlot, Belgium—has naturally become an ambassador for the resort. Constantly seeking authenticity, local ingredients, and new ideas, the mountains remain a powerful source of inspiration for his cuisine.

A RECIPE INSPIRED BY LES GETS

STUFFED MORELS - WILD GARLIC - VIN JAUNE

The morel stuffing

1. Finely blend the poultry in a blender. Add the egg and blend again.
2. Next, incorporate the melted butter, sugar, salt and grated Comté, blending vigorously until you achieve a smooth stuffing.
3. Gradually pour in the double cream while blending, until the mixture becomes light and homogenous.
4. Transfer the finished stuffing into a piping bag.

Wild garlic coulis

1. Rinse and clean the wild garlic leaves thoroughly.
2. Blanch them briefly in boiling water, then plunge them straight into a bowl of iced water to lock in their vibrant green colour.
3. Blend the leaves very finely with a splash of the cooking water or some chicken stock.
4. Add a knob of butter and season lightly.
5. Transfer to a small saucepan.

Preparing the morels

1. Clean the morels using a pastry brush and trim the stems.
2. Fill each one with the fine stuffing.
3. Lightly score the top of each morel to prevent the filling from escaping during cooking.
4. Cook the morels in a steam oven at 70°C for 4 minutes, or poach them in a vegetable, poultry or mushroom broth.
5. Transfer to a tray lined with paper towel to drain.

Walnuts and sabayon

1. Blanch the walnut halves in boiling water for a few seconds, then peel them.

2. Cut them in half.

3. Make a sabayon by gently whisking the egg yolks with the Vin Jaune over low heat.
4. Stop the cooking by adding a teaspoon of whipping cream and season with salt. (Optional: pour the sabayon into a siphon, insert two gas cartridges and keep it warm in a bain-marie at 60°C.)

Finishing and plating

1. Lightly brown the stuffed morels in a pan with a knob of butter, season with salt, and finish cooking in the oven at 180°C for 3 minutes.
2. Place them on absorbent paper to remove any excess fat.
3. In a shallow dish, spoon in the wild garlic coulis.
4. Add the morels, walnuts, and Comté discs.
5. Finish with the Vin Jaune sabayon and a few tagetes leaves.

Tip: You can swap out the Comté for Tomme from the Les Gets cheese dairy!

Feature suggestion: Join Christophe Pauly, ambassador of Les Gets and Michelin-starred chef, for a foraging adventure in the alpine pastures and create a local recipe together.

THE PLANETARY TRAIL

Embark on an adventure through the solar system without ever leaving Earth! The journey begins at Mont Calv, where the Sun is symbolised by a tall metal structure. The trail is accessible and easy, offering a fun and educational walk with stunning views of the surrounding mountains and an unforgettable panorama of the Mont Blanc range. All routes are open for free access.

A GOURMET WALK WITH THE PLANT MAN

In Les Gets, there are still ultra-protected areas called alpine pastures... These nearly wild enclaves, with acidic and poor soil, are natural pharmacies. To uncover all their secrets, Michel Rostalski, also known as the "Plant Man," takes us on a journey to discover the local flora.

Among the plants encountered is arnica, well-known to athletes, which has seen a decline in France but thrives in Les Gets due to a preservation policy and respectful harvesting practices. (In the past 10 years, its area has increased fivefold!). Yellow gentian, a trusted aid for digestive issues, is also making a comeback thanks to a policy of reseeding wild seeds... Its little sister, the rare red gentian, flourishes just like arnica... Delicious digestive liqueurs are made from it. We also find St. John's wort, an excellent natural anti-inflammatory, alpine spinach (with which unforgettable omelettes are made), meadowsweet, which contains natural aspirin, and all the small fruits used in mountain tarts: raspberries, lingonberries, blueberries, wild strawberries...

Feature suggestion: A gourmet walk with Michel Rostalski, exploring the local flora and crafting traditional remedies.

The Musée de la Musique Mécanique

In an age of digital technology and artificial intelligence, punched paper is still going strong! Les Gets is home to a unique site in Europe: the Musée de la Musique Mécanique, the second most-visited museum in Haute-Savoie. Housing over 900 pieces—some dating back to the 17th century—every item in the collection is still in working order.

A BIG SUMMER FOR THE MUSEUM: THREE MAJOR EVENTS

"MECHANICAL STROLL IN LES GETS": A GRAPHIC NOVEL BY FÉLIX MEYNET

First up is the release of the very first comic book dedicated to mechanical music, two years in the making with author, illustrator, and mountain-lover Félix Meynet. Based in the neighbouring valley, Meynet brings to life Balade Mécanique aux Gets [Mechanical Stroll in Les Gets], the tale of a travelling music-seller who sets off from Les Gets before the First World War on a journey through the Vosges and Germany, visiting mechanical organ factories along the way. His adventure is packed with twists and turns... Elegant illustrations and meticulous colouring make this a highly anticipated and beautifully crafted release.

Launch: Sunday, 20 July at 10:30 a.m. – Available at the museum shop for €18

PICASSO'S MECHANICAL PIANO

And then came the unexpected announcement in February 2024: the auction of Pablo Picasso's very own mechanical piano! The sale took place in Nice, hosted by the Million-Riviera auction house. Described by La Gazette Drouot as "a precious witness, an incredible memento of Pablo Picasso's life and his children...", the piano was highly sought after by international collectors. Thanks to the support of a generous patron, the Les Gets museum was able to acquire it—ensuring that this remarkable piece remains in France. The Association de la Musique Mécanique has since begun the restoration of this piano, originally crafted by the famous Nallino Workshop in Nice. The instrument has passed through the expert hands of a piano maker in Ain, a cabinetmaker and marquetry specialist in the Doubs, and a mechanical instrument expert in Isère. Diana, daughter of Maya, expressed her delight "that her grandfather's piano is now in such good hands."

THE MUSEUM CELEBRATES - 19 AND 20 JULY 2025

Expect plenty of entertainment, original performances and delightful discoveries during this lively weekend—all decked out in Spanish colours in honour of Picasso. The highlight of the event will be the unveiling of Pablo Picasso's mechanical piano, a true "national treasure," restored to its former glory and now part of the museum's unique European collection in Les Gets. Also not to be missed: the launch of the new comic book album, with the artist himself on site for book signings. The Old Village will come alive with street organ players, magicians, a face painter, a caricaturist and more!

Feature suggestion: Discover a one-of-a-kind collection of mechanical musical instruments—all still in working order.

A destination committed to sustainability

PRESERVING NATURAL SPACES

From Natura 2000 protected sites to its inclusion in the Chablais UNESCO Global Geopark, Les Gets is deeply aware of the treasures—and the vulnerabilities—of its exceptional natural environment.

- Protection of the black grouse habitat (a protected species of gamebird)
- The Plateau de Loëx designated as a Natura 2000 site
- Preservation of natural areas and restoration of wetlands
- Membership in the Chablais UNESCO Global Geopark (a protected geological site), including an educational trail at Lac des Écoles (Boittets peat bog)
- Commitment to the "Zero Pesticide Objective" environmental initiative
- Summer grass reseeded: prevents soil erosion, helps ski runs blend into the landscape, improves snow retention, and restores biodiversity...
- The Père Delavay botanical garden, open in summer and certified as a recognised collection by the French Conservatory of Specialised Plant Collections (CCVS), showcasing little-known plant species.
- The eco-friendly golf course

SUSTAINABLE MOBILITY

With transport accounting for around 75% of greenhouse gas emissions in the tourism sector, soft mobility is a top priority in Les Gets. It starts in the village itself, where the centre is pedestrianised and served by a highly efficient (and free!) shuttle service. In summer, a fleet of 35 self-service electric bikes makes getting around easy, enjoyable, and—best of all—carbon-free. Then, beyond the village, Les Gets offers regular inter-resort shuttle services, including a connection to the Cluses SNCF station (just 25 minutes away). And considering that home-to-holiday travel alone accounts for 68% of total emissions, it's great to be able to get here (easily!) by train.

- Intra- and inter-resort shuttles, the tourist train, and resort shuttles all powered by renewable rapeseed-based fuel (Oleo100)

- Travel planning made simple with the Pysae app and Tictatip route planner
- Charging stations for electric cars and e-MTBs in the village and on the slopes
- 35 GetsLib' electric bikes available in summer for self-service use

WASTE REDUCTION

Sometimes creativity is required to achieve a remarkable reduction in waste. It also requires daring to leave your comfort zone, rethinking, reinventing and not being afraid to invite holidaymakers to change their habits too.

- Reusable SKI/MTB passes made of beechwood (zero plastic)
- A smoke-free ski area in winter, with designated smoking zones and awareness campaigns—the first of its kind in Europe!*
- "Les Gets, cigarette butt-free zone" initiative, with collection and repurposing of cigarette waste
- Community litter-pick days
- Digital clean-up efforts—because data pollution matters too!

ENERGY CONSUMPTION UNDER CONTROL

Until we achieve zero energy consumption, we can start by limiting it. To do this, we identify energy-intensive elements and think about how to use them differently.

- A wood-fired heating plant supplying 13 municipal buildings
- "3 Flower" community label: rainwater is collected from public buildings and reused for watering communal areas.
- A collective eco-commitment charter signed by ski area operators, including SoleGets
- Participation in the "Climsnow" study to assess climate change impacts and anticipate snow cover on the slopes
- New-generation, energy-efficient snow guns

Feature suggestion: Discover how a mountain village is leading the way in sustainable tourism—meet the people turning this vision into reality.

Les Gets
Portes du Soleil

Summer 2025 in Les Gets is shaping up to be an unforgettable summer of excitement and discovery—where sport, nature and good times go hand in hand!
